Chris Ryan

Module 8 Explanation

For the restructuring my repository, I did two main things: un-capitalize my file names and moved everything into appropriate folders.

I realized that a few of my file names still did have capitals in them, so I made sure to set those into proper web standards. This way people viewing my page don't have to remember capital letters. Additionally, this will also make it easier for me to locate and check my files as I upload them to my repo.

Secondly, I split all of my files into folders by module. So all the Module 4 files went into the module4 folder, and so on. This will allow easy navigation between files in each individual module.

Overall, I do believe that this was a good step for our repositories. It made them more organized, and it in the long-run this could be beneficial.